

ARCHITECTURE

NEW TO MARKET

AUCTIONS

You've Got Stub, LA: Should City Change Its Skyline?

Neutra's Troxell House Hits the Market

Auction Process Not Dead, Little Tokyo Lofts Looking to

FROM THE DEVELOPERS OF TIME WARNER

FIND YOUR

SEARCH LISTING

NEW YORK CITY

PRICE (max)

DISTINCTIVE LUXURY

FXUEHG#D# 47 #hz#srw#	HDWU#D# < #hz#srw#	UDFNHG#D# 9 #hz#srw#	FXUEHG#D## 64 #hz#srw#	P.DUNHWSDFH# 9 #hz#srw#
--------------------------	-----------------------	-------------------------	----------------------------	----------------------------

CURBEDWIRE

JhgyduDuxs#Wnh#Fdqwxfwirg#5343/#Lghd#Dulybj#Grzqwrzq

Tuesday, October 19, 2010, by Dakota Smith

- Miracle Mile/Hancock Park
- CurbedWire
- Comment now

Like

MID WILSHIRE: The Fifth Annual CanstructionLA competition is on, a contest that sees local architecture firms make structures out of cans and bring attention to the Los Angeles Regional Foodbank. Gensler/Arup won Juror's Choice for their contribution, seen above. And the description: "Can-on Picture a World Without Hunger" literally puts a lens on hunger with a detailed, interactive replica of a camera—complete with video playback and viewfinder that convey messages about hunger and allow us to reflect on our own involvement in solving the hunger problem." You can see all the submission via photos here and the structures are on view at 5900 Wilshire through November 6th. [Curbed InBox]